CONFERENCE IS FRUITLESS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

New York, July 7.—The armistice

that has prevailed for nearly forty

eight hours between the embittered

elements of the Democratic National convention expired today and the

night for the Presidential nomi-

nation was tossed back into the battle

arena at Madison Square

Garden for the delegates themselves

to settle.

The week end conferences, which

were expected to restore the har-

mony shattered by two turbulent

weeks of bickering and name calling,

failed to achieve their mission. They

failed only in some clarification of

the general mess, and renewed proof

that it is William G. McAdoo against

McAdoo.

When the home hungry delegates

this morning they found that

propositions had been cooked up

for them by the harmony committee:

1.—An agreement signed by fifteen

delegates, headed by Governor A.

Smith, and not including McAdoo, releasing their delegates from all

pledges.

2.—McAdoo's private plan for breaking the deadlock on his own terms,

these terms embracing (a) substitution

of a majority nomination for the

two thirds rule, (b) abrogation of the

unit rule, (c) dropping the lowest

candidate on each ballot until a nomi-

nation is made, and (d) permitting

delegates who remain in the convention to cast the votes of those who

have quit the convention cold and

gone home.

The first plan was agreed to by all

the candidates except McAdoo. The

second plan was agreed to only by

McAdoo.

Excessively weary after hours of

wandering in a smoke filled room

the delegates resignedly threw up

their hands early this morning, decided to put both plans before the convention and then went to bed.

The rock upon which the conference

split was that represented by the

last two conditions of the McAdoo

plan—dropping the lowest candidate

on each ballot until a nomination is

made, and permitting delegates present to cast the vote for delegates absent.

These conditions were characterized by anti-McAdoo leaders as "ridiculous." They pointed out that there is

no way the convention can compel Os-

car Underwood's 24 delegates from

Alabama, for instance, to vote for Mc-

Adoo or Smith; and as for permitting

the delegates present to vote for the

delegates absent, they just laughed

at that. They knew that a considerable number of delegates have left

ADJOURN TILL 8:30

Madison Square Garden, July 7.—

After taking six more ballots, today

making 83 in all, in a futile effort to

nominate a candidate for the presidency the Democratic National convention recessed shortly before four

o'clock until 8:30 tonight when it will

reconvene and endeavor to work itself

out of the impasse it has labored in

for a week.

Madison Square Garden, July 7.—

At the end of 82 fruitless ballots for

a presidential candidate the Democratic National convention this after-

noon adopted a resolution stating that

the time has arrived in this convention

when all delegates "should be and

hereby are released from any pledges

or instructions of any kind whatso-

ever, touching upon any candidacy for

the nomination for President."

The resolution was adopted by the

convention in precisely the same

form that it came from the Sunday

conference of leaders. It was the

same resolution that Wm. G. McAdoo

said did not offer a solution for the

unfortunate deadlock in the convention.

Literally applied the resolution re-

leased all delegates in the convention,

McAdoo's included, from any "pledges

or instructions" to candidates or from

their state conventions, but the effect

of it remained to be determined.

All the candidates other than Mc-

Adoo released their delegates this

morning, but the delegates so releas-

ed continued to vote just as they had

been voting—for Smith, Underwood,

Davis, Robinson and other favorites

and the deadlock continued.

Whether McAdoo's delegates would

take advantage of the freedom thus

accorded them by formal action of the

convention itself only future ballot-

ing could determine.

The vote was 983 aye and 105 no.

The resolution did not affect either

the unit rule or the two thirds nomi-

nating rule—it was merely an expression of the convention's opinion

that all delegates should be released

from pledges and instructions despite

the opposition of Mr. McAdoo and his refusal to endorse it last night.

The McAdoo force split badly on the adoption of the resolution. Georgia,

Utah and South Carolina, 300 Mc-

Adoo's strong holds fell into line for

it.

Following adoption, Chairman Walsh

explained that the unit rule was not

affected, nor the two thirds rule.

"It merely expresses the sense of

the convention, that any instructions

and pledges heretofore existent

should not be longer binding on them,

WILL ROGERS MAKES
SUPREME SACRIFICE.

New York, July 7 (INS).—

Will Rogers, the comedian, has

joined 15 other candidates for

the Democratic presidential nomination in releasing their delegates, he told International

News Service. Bill had only one

delegate and had that one only

once, but now Bill's out of it.

"I had only one guy for me

and William Jennings Bryan

against me," he explained. "That

killed all my chances."

"These instructions and pledges

were given at a time when it was expected a nomination could be had with

in a reasonable time.

"It is an expression from the convention that delegates who disregard

such pledges and instructions cannot

be rightly or properly criticized for

their action."

Madison Square Garden, New York,

July 7 (INS).—While balloting for

the presidential nomination mounted

into the 80th this afternoon Democratic leaders renewed their efforts

to break the deadlock between William

G. McAdoo and Governor A. Smith by

finding a compromise candidate who

can poll two thirds of the delegates.

Various movements were under way

as the balloting dreadfully proceeded

one that attracted considerable attention was being engineered by William

Clancy of Michigan. They arranged

a meeting for later in the afternoon

to be attended by delegates from their

own state, Minnesota, Oklahoma,

Massachusetts, Vermont and a few

other states at which efforts will be

made to agree upon a candidate who

will receive the support of these

states. The success of this movement

was considered somewhat doubtful.

At the same time, several United States Senators, convinced that some-

thing "has to be done" were going

around the Garden trying to line up

support for a ticket of John W. Davis

and Thomas J. Walsh or Senator Joe

T. Robinson, of Arkansas with Governor Smith as the Vice Presidential candidate.

Still another movement was in the

direction of Carter Glass of Virginia

Missouri swung her 36 votes to the Virginia on the 80th ballot, and Mc-

Adoo dropped down again to around

450, after remaining above 500 in re-

cent balloting.

All these movements were going on

around the Garden at the same time

as the balloting went on. There was

no concerted move in any direction,

and by 2 o'clock it appeared that the

convention was in a fair way to go on indefinitely.

Word spread around the floor that

James M. Cox, the Standard bearer in 1920 had arrived in town to help the

party out of the muck it has got itself

into.

William G. McAdoo's fortunes declined steadily in today's balloting up

to 3 o'clock. Starting with 311 on the

first ballot of the day, the 78½ of the

convention, votes dropped away from

him on every ballot and on the 82nd

he was down to only a little over 400.

Meanwhile under the stimulus of "a

run," Carter Glass of Virginia had

climbed up to third place with 78

votes on the 82nd and John W. Davis

was fourth with 71. Governor Smith

hung around the "veto mark," of 366.

Cox, Titular Head Of Democracy, Lands In New York To Try Hand At
Breaking The Existing Deadlock

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 7.—

(INS).—James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, came to New York today as the "titular leader" of the party, to lend his aid in breaking the

deadlock in the national convention and in extricating the

party from the situation which has developed in New York.

"I am not a candidate and would not accept the nomination if it were tendered me," he said.

Shortly after reaching New York Governor Cox issued the following statement:

"I have come to New York at the urgent request of

prominent members of the party who have expressed to

me the belief that a trying emergency has arisen and that

the offices of the titular leader of Democracy should be extended with a view to bringing about harmony.

"At the outset let it be understood that not only am I

not a candidate but would not accept the nomination if tendered me. I do not know whether I can be of any service or not but my gratitude and duty tells me that I should try.

"It is unnecessary to elaborate upon the need of agreement. Nothing would be gained by going into events

or conditions that have come and gone since the convention assembled. I am not here for or against any candidate

but am simply seeking to initiate and develop a purely

Democratic and non-factional view out of which will come

both a nomination and a Democratic president."

apparently doubtful that anything short of a party split can break the deadlock, which has gripped them tightly for two weeks, the delegates to the Democratic National Convention returned wearily to Madison Square Garden today and started on their third week of this record-breaking, unprecedented political gathering.

Many of them came with their pockets bulging with resolutions designed to solve the situation in which the convention has entangled itself. Almost everybody had "a plan," but the trouble was that all of them tread on somebody's toes—the same trouble experienced by the leaders in their herculean efforts to get together over the week end.

The Garden was hot and sticky, and this didn't add to the comfort of the tired delegates or to their peace of mind.

William Jennings Bryan was one of the early arrivals. He came in promptly at 11 o'clock and settled himself with a huge palm leaf fan in his seat in the Florida section and started fanning vigorously.

"It doesn't look to me like the deadlock will end today," he commented placidly between swipes of his big fan. "The only thing I am sure of is that the convention is two days nearer adjournment than it was Saturday. That is true only because we must adjourn before election."

The New York delegation held a caucus just before coming to the Garden, and decided to vote as it has voted for dozens of futile ballots "88 for

Smith, and two for McAdoo." "I don't see anything hopeful," said Senator David I. Walsh, of Mass. Tom Taggart, the Indiana leader, was the centre of a disconsolate group of delegates who were seeking immediately hopeful news. He had none. "It's up to the delegates," shrugged most of the leaders.

The delegates didn't relish the responsibility apparently. "Why don't they get together?" was the plaintive cry of the homesick ones.

The floor talk was of the Arkansas Senator, Robinson, of all the compromises thus far offered, he alone, it appeared, was acceptable to both sides, once McAdoo and Smith are eliminated.

It was 11:25 when Chairman Walsh stopped the milling and conversation on the floor by rapping with the gavel. Sympathy For Coolidge.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Wm. L. Phillips, assistant rector of the Little Church Around the Corner. Like the score of black-frocked ecclesiastics that have preceded him, he asked that Divinity might guide the deliberations of the delegates.

When the prayer was concluded, Charles R. Wilson, a delegate from Huntington, W. Va., offered a resolution expressing the convention's sympathy for the President and Mrs. Coolidge on account of the serious illness of their son, Calvin, Jr.

It was adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

This accomplished, Walsh submitted his report on the result of Sunday's tortive conference.

Mr. McAdoo's letter declining to join with his fifteen rivals in a general release of delegates was then read, together with the proposition of his own that was submitted to Chairman Walsh, and which was brought up and turned down by the fifteen. J. Bruce Kremer, one of the McAdoo managers, introduced a resolution proposing that the McAdoo proposal and the proposal of the 15 both be submitted to the Rules committee.

Kremer's proposition would throw the responsibility for a change of the rules on the Rules Committee of the Convention which the McAdoo managers claimed a week ago was controlled by McAdoo people.

Kremer's resolution was voted down by a viva voce vote leading to shouts by the McAdoo people for a roll call. "Proceed with the 78th ballot," Walsh ordered, and the battle was on again.

The only departure of the 78th ballot was a split in the Virginia delegation, which had been voting 24 for Carter Glass on 77 ballots. On the 78th, Virginia voted 14 for Glass and 10 for McAdoo, giving the McAdoo cohorts a thrill.

The McAdoo gain in this respect, however, was offset by Smith gains in Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

While the 78th ballot was in progress, Missouri was polling and it was decided to leave McAdoo starting with the 80th ballot unless he showed something prior to that time. The sentiment was to go for Kaelson or Robinson.

First Ballot Today
McAdoo 511

Robinson 22
Ryan 3

Kaelson 5

The 79th ballot brought little appreciable change in the standing of the candidates.

While it was in progress, there was another gathering of some of the leaders in the little conference room underneath the platform. At the end of the 79th ballot, Missouri decided to switch for Carter Glass, beginning with the 80th ballot. On the 79th ballot, Richard Roberts of the canal zone delegation challenged a vote, and a poll revealed a fifty-fifty split, three for McAdoo and three for Smith.

Walsh ruled several days ago that under the instructions which the Panamanians were operating, they had to cast the entire six votes for McAdoo, and the Smith men in the delegation contended that they had stuck to McAdoo's long and appealed for a decision that would "permit us to vote our consciences."

The chairman of the Canal Zone declared that their instructions permitted the delegates no other choice than to vote for McAdoo and asserted the delegates "would be traitors to the people who sent us here," if the vote was otherwise.

The Smith men won their contest. Chairman Walsh ruling that he had been mistaken when he previously ordered the whole vote cast for McAdoo and issued a new ruling that the Canal Zone vote might be cast three and three for McAdoo and Smith.

Governor A. W. Gilchrist of Florida was recognized after the 82nd ballot and moved that the rules be suspended.

ended and the resolution favored by the fifteen candidates other than McAdoo be adopted as an expression of the will of this convention.

Walsh called for a vote on the matter and the McAdoo people yelled "no" and the Smith-favorite-son group yelled "aye".

"The Chair is in doubt," said Walsh, "and the roll will be called."

He granted a five minute recess for chairmen to poll their delegations.

FRANKLIN WINS

A Triumph For Air-Cooling

Franklin maintains its position as a leader by Winning first place and both the endurance and economy trophies in the El Paso Herald Endurance Tour. Franklin was one of the two cars out of sixteen that won both trophies in their classes.

Franklin's reliability score was superior to next nearest rival by 30 per cent and less than holder of third place by 64 per cent; lowest number of penalties indicating the winner in each class.

Franklin not only finished in first place but outscored in economy the best made watercooled automobiles by a margin so overwhelming as to leave no basis for comparison. Franklin won economy trophy over all cars above Class A.

It has been proved in this contest and similar contests conducted in the past 22 years that air-cooling furnishes a basis for a degree of reliability, efficiency, comfort and roadability not attainable in any water cooled car regardless of how much is spent in construction.

Owing to haste car used in tour was selected at random from stock, driven from Syracuse to El Paso in nine days, then entered in run. The motor, body and chassis are quiet and show no effect of the destructive roads encountered. In all a convincing demonstration that Franklin is an exceptional car on any and all roads.

Flexibility, light weight, scientific distribution of weight, full elliptic springs, wood sills and handling ease contributed to Franklin's remarkable record. The car's flexibility reduces damaging road shocks and consequently minimizes wear and breakage.

Air-cooling eliminates leaky, boiling radiators and connections. No parts of the cooling system can get out of order. On long, rough, rocky, tortuous grades, which necessitated using second gear, Franklin demonstrated its cooling system, when other cars had water troubles.

On Springerville to Globe road when many cars forced to maintain 20 mile average came in late, Franklin checked in on time, though leaving 10 minutes behind leader and losing 17 additional minutes by enforced stop.

Franklin is always willing to enter anything of a motoring efficiency and reliability nature to prove its faith in air-cooling and Franklin principles of construction.

THAT ALLEGED DEPRESSION

Unemployment has increased somewhat, and the business pessimists are sure the industrial heavens are going to fall. An optimist quietly remarks that the labor thus released by factories can soon be used to advantage, and will be so used, in the harvest fields. This is one of the things the farmer needs.

And by the time the laid-off industrial workers have got the crops in, the optimist adds, industry will be speeding up again and calling for more hands.

Why not? American business this summer is assuredly not depressed, according to the usual signs of depression. There is dullness in certain industries, especially steel. But there is good authority for saying that business generally is about normal for this time of year—also that "presidential years" are not normally worse than other years.

Strangely enough, while manufacturing has fallen off somewhat, distribution and consumption have kept up. That means industry will have to speed to catch up before long, whether it wants to or not. Bank clearings, always a good test, are running ahead of last year. The railroads are carrying more freight than their average in recent summers. Savings deposits are still growing. There is an enormous life insurance business, in small policies as well as large ones.

There is no present overproduction in this country. There is a vast accumulation of money, which is gradually being released at lower interest rates. Lower interest will inevitably stimulate business along all lines. If you must gamble, gamble on brisk business in the fall, regardless of politics.

TO SAVE NIAGARA FALLS

First aid to nature at Niagara Falls is the aim of engineers who are studying the mighty cataract. Power development projects have been blamed for detracting from the beauty of the falls by withdrawing a large volume of water. It appears, however, that this natural wonder is self-destructive.

Engineers estimate that 80 per cent of the water passing over the combined crest of the American and Canadian falls is concentrated in the comparatively narrow throat of the Horse-shoe Falls. The rock walls over which the water rushes at that particular place are therefore receding faster than the normal rate of six feet a year, while the cutting of the outer edge is correspondingly retarded. In a very short time, engineers maintain, this will destroy the beauty of contour of that part of the falls.

To modern engineering this is not a hopeless outlook. They are at work now devising means of forestalling the destructive forces and of maintaining for many years to come the beauty and grandeur that might otherwise be lost.

A miniature working model of the falls, built accurately according to careful surveys and airplane maps, has been constructed to help in studying the problem. Just what sort of props or protectors will be devised the layman cannot even guess. But engineers have worked enough miracles in recent years to inspire confidence that they can even save Niagara Falls from itself.

The news of her death will come as a shock to hundreds of DuBois friends, who, in spite of her long illness, had hoped with the family for her ultimate recovery.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, James of Battle Creek, Mich., Charles, of Pittsburgh; Paul, of Ridgway, and one daughter, Rosalie, also of Ridgway. At her bedside when she passed away were her husband, son Paul and daughter Rosalie.

Mrs. Barbara Frey was a devout Methodist, coming from a line long connected with the Methodist church. She was a member of the Eastern Star and the White Shrine. The funeral will probably be held on Wednesday morning, dependent, however, upon word from relatives. Interment will likely be made in the Salem cemetery.

Peter Brion, manager of the Clearfield Auto Supply Company, who had his left arm so severely injured in an automobile accident near Barrett last week, is still a patient at the Rowles hospital. He is recovering satisfactorily.

Mrs. Gerald J. Roach and children, Marilyn and Louise, and Mrs. Eugene Henry and son Lynn, visited their mother Mrs. R. H. Lynn who is a patient at the Cottage State Hospital at Philipsburg.

Mrs. R. H. Lynn of South Second Street is confined to the Cottage State Hospital at Philipsburg.

Is Seriously Ill

and mother, some way, some how, would be able to accomplish the thing—whatever it might be—that would keep him alive. Except for the three times that he came so close to death that the dividing line was hardly visible, the boy has been conscious of all that was being done for him.

At one o'clock this morning, the word was passed out from the room where the Coolidges were gathered that it did not seem possible for the boy to live after four o'clock this morning. But when that hour came, a new note of cheerfulness was evident, and hopes were expressed that his life could be saved, although the battle is not yet won.

The operation Saturday night and subsequent examinations developed the fact that only one germ was present in the infected part of the boy's body, thus making it easier for the physicians to concentrate on the eradication of this element. The germ is known as the Staphylococcus. Introduced last Monday into a tiny blister on the boy's foot, the germ swept rapidly through the body, and the object of the fight now is to cause them to gather in specific places in the body so that operations can be performed to remove them.

At 8 a. m. physicians at the hospital made the following statement: "The most promising thing upon which hope is based is none of the vital organs have broken."

It is painful to the soul that is felt that a man may become puffed with pride if you give him a compliment.

RUFFLES

Just three little ruffles of organza, given to one side but not to the other, make this crepe de chine frock distinctive and relieve the plainness which has got a little monotonous. The skirt is a wrap-around and ties in a large bow on the opposite side from the trimming maintaining an equal distribution of favors. This is the type of dress that is seen everywhere these days and is made up in all types of material and all colors.

McAdoo Refused To Release Delegates

While they were engaged in this quiet canvass of sentiment, McAdoo himself was vehemently assuring these same delegates of his that under no circumstances is he going to quit this fight.

"I will fight to my last drop of blood to win this fight against the sinister influences that oppose me," McAdoo said to a group of his followers. "People have come to me and begged me with tears in their eyes not to abandon this fight, and I'm not going to withdraw. I would feel like a contemptible traitor if I did."

The harmony conference however still has a breath of life in it, despite its failure to evolve a plan for breaking the deadlock pleasing to all the candidates.

"There probably will be another meeting," said Tom Taggart of Indiana, this morning. "No, I don't know when. The meeting so far has been like two fellows sparring for an opening. We said: 'Here's our plan,' the McAdoo people said: 'Here's ours,' we could not agree, but it looks to me like another offer will be made."

This heightened the impression that McAdoo, realizing he is in an awkward position by alone standing out against the plan to which fifteen others have agreed, will bring forth another proposition or else modify his present one.

"The conference has by no means ended," said David L. Rockwell, McAdoo's manager. "We probably will meet again and I think there may be a new proposition submitted."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, chairman of the convention and one of the two umpires who sat in the conference, was not so sanguine.

"The situation is not very promising," said Walsh following the break-up. "It doesn't look to me like an amicable solution is in sight or that any general agreement can be reached."

George Brennan, the Illinois boss, who is acting for Governor Smith, declared he was opposed to discarding the two thirds rule at this stage of the nomination.

"Originally I was in favor of majority nomination," said Brennan. "But they elected to fight this battle out on the two thirds rule and with so much bitterness in the convention now I feel it would be bad business to change it in the middle of the fight."

In this situation, the only apparent hope of obtaining a quick nomination lies in the delegates themselves.

Loud and long were the lamentations this morning when they learned their leaders have been unable to reach an agreement. They have been here two weeks and they want to go home. Their purses are low. Some of them already empty, and they are wiring home for funds.

With resentment and nostalgia uppermost in their minds the delegates themselves may decide to take the bit in their collective teeth and stampede in any direction that looks promising. The anti-McAdoo leaders are privately hoping they will—so long as the direction is not McAdoo.

And they are more confident than ever that it won't be McAdoo.

The Californian's opposition to the terms agreed upon by his fifteen rivals for ending the fight has solidified

Bellefonte, Pa., July 7. (INS.)—"God bless everybody" were the last words of John Daily, 30, an Italian just before he was electrified here at 7:30 this morning at the Rockview Penitentiary. Daily was convicted of killing his wife two years ago in Allegheny county.

He was pronounced dead at 7:37. His body has been unclaimed.

Pittsburgh—Ignatz Gossek, 50, of Renon, Plum township, died early today at the Citizens' General hospital at New Kensington from shock and internal injuries received during a quarrel over a card game last night, according to the police.

Pittsburgh—Thousands of delegates are already here today for the 11th biennial convention of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor, which opens this afternoon and will close July 11. Tonight at Forbes Field a mass meeting will be held with C. M. Lehmann, convention chairman presiding when President A. H. Brownell of the Pennsylvania C. E. and Mayor William A. McGee will deliver addresses.

Greensburg—Harry, Jr., eight couch the child rolled into a blanket, Pittsburgh, visiting at the home of his aunt Mrs. Davis Beckley, at Youngwood near here, was smothered to death when during his sleep on a couch the child rolled into a blanket, according to authorities.

Washington—The Pennsylvania Retail Clothiers' Association annual convention opened here today with about 600 clothing merchants from all parts of the State in attendance. The Men's Apparel Club will meet here also at the same time. The convention will close with a banquet Thursday evening at the George Washington Hotel.

Philadelphia—Joseph Adams, 13 years old, was dead today from a bullet wound accidentally inflicted by Francis McNabb, 12 years old, with a revolver which "wasn't loaded" while they were playing Indians. Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7. (INS.)—Wilbert Fochser, 14, Charles Morasco 18, and Carl Wolment, 17, were drowned in different swimming accidents here yesterday.

Harrisburg—Constable John Noon, of Middletown, believes in enforcing the law no matter whom it strikes. That is why he returned from Beaver Falls last night with his son, John, Jr., in custody, on a charge of burglary.

Several weeks ago Noon began investigating a grocery store robbery. Evidence pointed toward his son. The son left town to take a job at Beaver Falls. Noon went after him and brought him back under arrest.

Harrisburg—Two persons are in the Harrisburg Hospital in a serious condition as the result of dynamite caps exploding. Russell Baker was injured when a dynamite cap exploded while he was attempting to insert a fuse in it. Victor Wimmer, 11 years old, had his left hand blown off when he struck a dynamite cap with a piece of wood.

Now Is The Time To Drink Lots of Milk

Days like today has been, when it has been almost too much trouble to eat, are days when milk should play a leading part in your diet. There is little or no preparation necessary for the housewife in making up several delicious dishes in which milk plays a leading part. Bread and milk, something which will appease the kiddies' hunger and keep them full of pep during the heated term, is very little trouble and yet, you know that your kiddies are getting plenty of nourishment to keep their little bodies in fine shape.

Be sure that you use plenty of milk during this sort of weather.

Just a word of caution. Get your milk on ice as soon as you possibly can after the wagonman has delivered it. This is the hardest sort of weather to keep milk sweet and a trifle of care along this line will save you disappointment.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

New York, July 7.—The armistice

that has prevailed for nearly forty
eight hours between the embittered
members of the Democratic National convention expired today and the
night for the Presidential nomi-
nation was tossed back into the battle
arena at Madison Square
Garden for the delegates themselves
to settle.The week end conferences, which
were expected to restore the har-
mony shattered by two turbulent
weeks of bickering and name calling,
failed to achieve their mission. They
failed only in some clarification of
the general mess, and renewed proof
that it is William G. McAdoo against
all.When the home hungry delegates
gathered this morning they found that
propositions had been cooked up
for them by the harmony committee:
1—An agreement signed by fifteen
delegates, headed by Governor A.
Smith, and not including McAdoo, re-
leasing their delegates from all
pledges.2—McAdoo's private plan for breaking the deadlock on his own terms,
three terms embracing (a) substitution
of a majority nomination for the
two thirds rule, (b) abrogation of the
unit rule, (c) dropping the lowest
candidate on each ballot until a nomi-
nation is made, and (d) permitting
delegates who remain in the convention to cast the votes of those who
have quit the convention cold and
gone home.The first plan was agreed to by all
the candidates except McAdoo. The
second plan was agreed to only by McAdoo.Excessively weary after hours of
wandering in a smoke filled room
the delegates resignedly threw up
their hands early this morning, decid-
ed to put both plans before the convention and then went to bed.The rock upon which the conference
split was that represented by the
last two conditions of the McAdoo
plan—dropping the lowest candidate
on each ballot until a nomination is
made, and permitting delegates pres-
ent to cast the vote for delegates ab-
sent.These conditions were characterized by anti-McAdoo leaders as "ridiculous." They pointed out that there is
no way the convention can compel Os-
car Underwood's 24 delegates from
Alabama, for instance, to vote for Mc-
Adoo or Smith; and as for permitting
the delegates present to vote for the
delegates absent, they just laughed
at that. They knew that a considerable number of delegates have left
this convention cold and gone home,
and most of them are McAdoo's.Simultaneously with the break up of the harmony conference, the anti-McAdoo leaders, embracing the representatives of all fifteen rivals began a quiet canvass to determine if they can get together enough votes to swing
nomination to Senator Joe T. Robinson, the favorite son of Arkansas.To do so they must break into some of the McAdoo delegations, and their ability to do this was considered problematical. They were not hopeful, but confident. They think they have put the onus for continuing the deadlock on Mr. McAdoo and that this fact will help them by showing his delegates where the blame lies, but
they were none too sanguine.

ADJOURN TILL 8:30

Madison Square Garden, July 7.—

After taking six more ballots, today
making 83 in all, in a futile effort to
nominate a candidate for the presidency the Democratic National convention recessed shortly before four
o'clock until 8:30 tonight when it will
reconvene and endeavor to work itself
out of the impasse it has labored in
for a week.

Last Ballot Today

McAdoo 418
Smith 368
Davis 72½
Underwood 48½
Glass 76
Richie 16½
Robinson 27 1-5
Bryan 5½
Owen 20
Saulsbury 6
Walsh 4
Ferris 7½
Roosevelt 1
Senator Wheeler 1
Ralston 24At the end of 82 fruitless ballots for
a presidential candidate the Democratic National convention this after-
noon adopted a resolution stating that
the time has arrived in this convention
when all delegates "should be and
hereby are released from any pledges
or instructions of any kind whatso-
ever, touching upon any candidacy for
the nomination for President."The resolution was adopted by the
convention in precisely the same
form that it came from the Sunday
conference of leaders. It was the
same resolution that Wm. G. McAdoo
said did not offer a solution for the
unfortunate deadlock in the convention.Literally applied the resolution re-
leased all delegates in the convention,
McAdoo's included, from any "pledges
or instructions" to candidates or from
their state conventions, but the effect
of it remained to be determined.All the candidates other than Mc-Adoo released their delegates this
morning, but the delegates so releas-
ed continued to vote just as they had
been voting—for Smith, Underwood,
Davis, Robinson and other favorite sons and the deadlock continued.Whether McAdoo's delegates would
take advantage of the freedom thus
accorded them by formal action of the
convention itself only future ballot-
ing could determine.

The vote was 983 aye and 105 no.

The resolution did not affect either
the unit rule or the two thirds nomi-
nating rule—it was merely an expression of the convention's opinion
that all delegates should be released
from pledges and instructions despite
the opposition of Mr. McAdoo and his refusal to endorse it last night.The McAdoo force split badly on the adoption of the resolution. Georgia,
Utah and South Carolina, 300 Mc-
Adoo's strong holds fell into line for
it.Following adoption, Chairman Walsh
explained that the unit rule was not affected, nor the two thirds rule."It merely expresses the sense of
the convention, that any instructions
and pledges heretofore existent
should not be longer binding on them,WILL ROGERS MAKES SUPREME SACRIFICE.New York, July 7 (INS).—
Will Rogers, the comedian, has
joined 15 other candidates for
the Democratic presidential nomination in releasing their dele-
gates, he told International News Service. Bill had only one
delegate and had that one only
once, but now Bill's out of it.
"I had only one guy for me
and William Jennings Bryan
against me," he explained. "That
killed all my chances.""These instructions and pledges
were given at a time when it was expected a nomination could be had with
in a reasonable time."It is an expression from the convention that delegates who disregard
such pledges and instructions cannot
be rightly or properly criticized for
their action."Madison Square Garden, New York, July 7 (INS).—While balloting for
the presidential nomination mounted
into the 80th this afternoon Democratic leaders renewed their efforts
to break the deadlock between William
G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith by
finding a compromise candidate who
can poll two thirds of the delegates.Various movements were under way
as the balloting dreadfully proceeded
one that attracted considerable attention was being engineered by William Clancy of Michigan. They arranged
a meeting for later in the afternoon
to be attended by delegates from their
own state, Minnesota, Oklahoma,
Massachusetts, Vermont and a few
other states at which efforts will be
made to agree upon a candidate who
will receive the support of these
states. The success of this movement
was considered somewhat doubtful.At the same time, several United States Senators, convinced that some-
thing "has to be done" were going
around the Garden trying to line up
support for a ticket of John W. Davis
and Thomas J. Walsh or Senator Joe
T. Robinson, of Arkansas with Governor Smith as the Vice Presidential candidate.Still another movement was in the direction of Carter Glass of Virginia.
Missouri swung her 36 votes to the
Virginian on the 80th ballot, and Mc-Adoo dropped down again to around
450, after remaining above 500 in recent balloting.All these movements were going on
around the Garden at the same time
as the balloting went on. There was
no concerted move in any direction,
and by 2 o'clock it appeared that the
convention was in a fair way to go on
indefinitely.Word spread around the floor that James M. Cox, the Standard bearer in 1920 had arrived in town to help the
party out of the muck it has got itself
into.William G. McAdoo's fortunes declined steadily in today's balloting up
to 3 o'clock. Starting with 311 on the
first ballot of the day, the 78½ of the
convention, votes dropped away from
him on every ballot and on the 82nd
he was down to only a little over 400.Meanwhile under the stimulus of "a
run," Carter Glass of Virginia had
climbed up to third place with 78
votes on the 82nd and John W. Davis
was fourth with 71. Governor Smith
hung around the "veto mark," of 366.

deadlock in the national convention and in extricating the
party from the situation which has developed in New York."I am not a candidate and would not accept the nomination if it were tendered me," he said.Shortly after reaching New York Governor Cox is-

"I have come to New York at the urgent request of
prominent members of the party who have expressed to
me the belief that a trying emergency has arisen and that
the offices of the titular leader of Democracy should be extended with a view to bringing about harmony.""At the outset let it be understood that not only am I

the blood poisoning that is slowly
sapping his strength and bringing him

early this afternoon was that the boy
"was holding his own desperately but
that it was useless to be too opti-

at the hospital that the fight had been made more difficult by the accumulation of gas in the boy's stomach.
This will make it impossible for any more nourishment to be given him

announcement with an informal state-

boy's condition and declaring that the situation had become graver.Because of this grave condition of

Balloting

apparently doubtful that anything short of a party split can break the deadlock, which has gripped them tightly for two weeks, the delegates to the Democratic National Convention returned wearily to Madison Square Garden today and started on their third week of this record breaking, unprecedented political gathering.

Many of them came with their pockets bulging with resolutions designed to solve the situation in which the convention has entangled itself. Almost everybody had "a plan," but the trouble was that all of them tread on somebody's toes—the same trouble experienced by the leaders in their herculean efforts to get together over the week end.

The Garden was hot and sticky, and this didn't add to the comfort of the tired delegates or to their peace of mind.

William Jennings Bryan was one of the early arrivals. He came in promptly at 11 o'clock and settled himself with a huge palm leaf fan in his seat in the Florida section and started fanning vigorously.

"It doesn't look to me like the deadlock will end today," he commented placidly between swipes of his big fan. "The only thing I am sure of is that the convention is two days nearer adjournment than it was Saturday. That is true only because we must adjourn before election."

The New York delegation held a caucus just before coming to the Garden, and decided to vote as it has voted for dozens of futile ballots "88 for

Smith, and two for McAdoo."

"I don't see anything hopeful," said Senator David I. Walsh, of Mass. Tom Taggart, the Indiana leader, was the centre of a disconsolate group of delegates who were seeking immediately hopeful news. He had none.

"It's up to the delegates," shrugged most of the leaders. The delegates didn't relish the responsibility apparently.

"Why don't they get together?" was the plaintive cry of the homesick ones.

The floor talk was of the Arkansas Senator, Robinson, of all the compromises thus far offered, he alone, it appeared, was acceptable to both sides, once McAdoo and Smith are eliminated.

It was 11:25 when Chairman Walsh stopped the milling and conversation on the floor by rapping with the gavel.

Sympathy For Coolidge

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Wm. L. Phillips, assistant rector of the Little Church Around the Corner. Like the score of black-frocked ecclesiastics that have preceded him he asked that Divinity might guide the deliberations of the delegates.

When the prayer was concluded, Charles R. Wilson, a delegate from Huntington, W. Va., offered a resolution expressing the convention's sympathy for the President and Mrs. Coolidge on account of the serious illness of their son, Calvin, Jr.

It was adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

This accomplished, Walsh submitted his report on the result of Sunday's tortive conference.

Mr. McAdoo's letter declining to join with his fifteen rivals in a general release of delegates was then read, together with the proposition of his own that was submitted to Chairman Walsh and which was brought up and turned down by the fifteen.

J. Bruce Kremer, one of the McAdoo managers, introduced a resolution proposing that the McAdoo proposal and the proposal of the 15 both be submitted to the Rules committee.

Kremer's proposition would throw the responsibility for a change of the rules on the Rules Committee of the Convention which the McAdoo managers claimed a week ago was controlled by McAdoo people.

Kremer's resolution was voted down by a viva voce vote leading to shouts by the McAdoo people for a roll call.

"Proceed with the 78th ballot," Walsh ordered, and the battle was on again.

The only departure of the 78th ballot was a split in the Virginia delegation, which had been voting 24 for Carter Glass on 77 ballots. On the 78th, Virginia voted 14 for Glass and 10 for McAdoo, giving the McAdoo cohorts a thrill.

The McAdoo gain in this respect, however, was offset by Smith gains in Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and scatterings.

While the 78th ballot was in progress, Missouri was polling and it was decided to leave McAdoo starting with the 80th ballot unless he showed something prior to that time. The sentiment was to go for Ralston or Robinson.

First Ballot Today

McAdoo 511
Smith 363 1-5.
Davis 73 1/2
Underwood 49
Glass 21.

Robinson 22 1/2
Bryan 3

Walsh 6
Cox 3.

James W. Girard 1.
Woodbridge Ferris 17.
Franklin Roosevelt, 1.
Ralston 5.
The 79th ballot brought little appreciable change in the standing of the candidates.

While it was in progress, there was another gathering of some of the leaders in the little conference room underneath the platform.

At the end of the 79th ballot, Missouri decided to switch for Carter Glass, beginning with the 80th ballot.

On the 79th ballot, Richard Roberts of the canal zone delegation challenged the vote, and a poll revealed a fifty-fifty split, three for McAdoo and three for Smith.

Walsh ruled several days ago that under the instructions which the Panamanians were operating, they had to cast the entire six votes for McAdoo, "and a majority deemed otherwise."

To the protest was renewed, and the Smith men in the delegation contended that they had stuck to McAdoo too long, and appealed for a decision that would "permit us to vote our consciences."

The chairman of the Canal Zone declared that their instructions permitted the delegates no other choice than to vote for McAdoo, and asserted the delegates "would be traitors to the people who sent us here," if the vote was otherwise.

The Smith men won their contest. Chairman Walsh ruling that he had been mistaken when he previously ordered the whole vote cast for McAdoo and issued a new ruling that the Canal Zone vote might be cast three and three for McAdoo and Smith.

Governor A. W. Gilchrist of Florida was recognized after the 82nd ballot and moved that the rules be suspended and the resolution favored by the fifteen candidates other than McAdoo be adopted as an expression of the will of this convention.

Walsh called for a vote on the matter and the McAdoo people yelled "no" and the Smith-favorite group yelled "aye."

"The Chair is in doubt," said Walsh, "and the roll will be called."

He granted a five minute recess for chairmen to poll their delegations.

BEGINNING WASHDAY WITH THE WASHING DONE

Think of beginning "wash-day" with the washing done. That's what our service really means. For you can start right in to dry or iron the clothes that have come back to you clean and white. And the few cents a pound that it costs you are nothing compared to the long hours of hard work that you save. Call us today—and the next time you "wash" there won't be any "washing".

LET US WASH AND GREASE YOUR CAR OR TRUCK

We are getting a lot of praise on the way we are turning out clean cars in lieu of the muddy, dirty, squeaky ones that are brought in. Your car will look three or four times better than the cost of this service if you will have us keep it clean.

We will call for and deliver your car.

FRANKLIN WINS

A Triumph For Air-Cooling

Franklin maintains its position as a leader by Winning first place and both the endurance and economy trophies in the El Paso Herald Endurance Tour. Franklin was one of the two cars out of sixteen that won both trophies in their classes.

Franklin's reliability score was superior to next nearest rival by 30 per cent and less than holder of third place by 64 per cent; lowest number of penalties indicating the winner in each class.

Franklin not only finished in first place but outscored in economy the best made watercooled automobiles by a margin so overwhelming as to leave no basis for comparison. Franklin won economy trophy over all cars above Class A.

It has been proved in this contest and similar contests conducted in the past 22 years that air-cooling furnishes a basis for a degree of reliability, efficiency, comfort and roadability not attainable in any water cooled car regardless of how much is spent in construction.

Owing to haste car used in tour was selected at random from stock, driven from Syracuse to El Paso in nine days, then entered in run. The motor, body and chassis are quiet and show no effect of the destructive roads encountered. In all a convincing demonstration that Franklin is an exceptional car on any and all roads.

Flexibility, light weight, scientific distribution of weight, full elliptic springs, wood sills and handling ease contributed to Franklin's remarkable record. The car's flexibility reduces damaging road shocks and consequently minimizes wear and breakage.

Air-cooling eliminates leaky, boiling radiators and connections. No parts of the cooling system can get out of order. On long, rough, rocky, tortuous grades, which necessitated using second gear, Franklin demonstrated its cooling system, when other cars had water troubles.

On Springerville to Globe road when many cars forced to maintain 20-mile average came in late, Franklin checked in on time, though leaving 10 minutes behind leader and losing 17 additional minutes by enforced stop.

Franklin is always willing to enter anything of a motoring efficiency and reliability nature to prove its faith in air-cooling and Franklin principles of construction.

THAT ALLEGED DEPRESSION

Unemployment has increased somewhat, and the business pessimists are sure the industrial heavens are going to fall. An optimist quietly remarks that the labor thus released by factories can soon be used to advantage, and will be so used, in the harvest fields. This is one of the things the farmer needs.

And by the time the laid-off industrial workers have got the crops in, the optimist adds, industry will be speeding up again and calling for more hands.

Why not? American business this summer is assuredly not depressed, according to the usual signs of depression. There is dullness in certain industries, especially steel. But there is good authority for saying that business generally is about normal for this time of year—also that "presidential years" are not normally worse than other years.

Strangely enough, while manufacturing has fallen off somewhat, distribution and consumption have kept up. That means industry will have to speed to catch up before long, whether it wants to or not. Bank clearings, always a good test, are running ahead of last year. The railroads are carrying more freight than their average in recent summers. Savings deposits are still growing. There is an enormous life insurance business, in small policies as well as large ones.

There is no present overproduction in this country. There is a vast accumulation of money, which is gradually being released at lower interest rates. Lower interest will inevitably stimulate business along all lines. If you must gamble, gamble on brisk business in the fall, regardless of politics.

TO SAVE NIAGARA FALLS

First aid to nature at Niagara Falls is the aim of engineers who are studying the mighty cataract. Power development projects have been blamed for detracting from the beauty of the falls by withdrawing a large volume of water. It appears, however, that this natural wonder is self-destructive.

Engineers estimate that 80 per cent of the water passing over the combined crest of the American and Canadian falls is concentrated in the comparatively narrow throat of the Horseshoe Falls. The rock walls over which the water rushes at that particular place are therefore receding faster than the normal rate of six feet a year, while the cutting of the outer edge is correspondingly retarded. In a very short time, engineers maintain, this will destroy the beauty of contour of that part of the falls.

To modern engineering this is not a hopeless outlook. They are at work now devising means of forestalling the destructive forces and of maintaining for many years to come the beauty and grandeur that might otherwise be lost.

A miniature working model of the falls, built accurately according to careful surveys and airplane maps, has been constructed to help in studying the problem. Just what sort of props or protectors will be devised the layman cannot even guess. But engineers have worked enough miracles in recent years to inspire confidence that they can even save Niagara Falls from itself.

MODERN CARPET OF BAGDAD

Here is the brief picture story of the first transcontinental airmail flight, that latest chapter in the many romances of the air now being written. Messages now cross the nation in 36 hours, or thereabouts. Mail posted in New York at 8 a. m. will be delivered in San Francisco, the following evening. On the left is shown Pilot Claire Vance taking off from San Francisco, bringing in his mail pouch this picture of himself taken and developed on the field just before he started. At Cleveland the pilots were changed and Pilot Wesley L. Smith is shown (center) winging his way to New York and at right being greeted by his wife at the end of the history-making flight.

MRS. C. W. FREY
DIES FOLLOWING AN EXTENDED ILLNESS

Mrs. Barbara E. Frey, of DuBois, wife of Charles W. Frey, died at the Ridgway Hospital yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock, where she had been several times at death's door since an operation on June 4th. The news of her death will come as a shock to hundreds of DuBois friends, who, in spite of her long illness, had hoped with the family for her ultimate recovery.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, James of Battle Creek, Mich., Charles, of Pittsburgh; Paul, of Ridgway, and one daughter, Rosalie, also of Ridgway. At her bedside when she passed away were her husband, son Paul and daughter Rosalie.

Mrs. Barbara Frey was a devout Methodist, coming from a line long connected with the Methodist church. She was a member of the Eastern Star and the White Shrine. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. at the DuBois funeral home.

oral will probably be held on Wednesday morning, dependent, however, upon word from relatives. Interment will likely be made in the Salem cemetery.

Playing Safe.

Harry's folks noticed he was content to play in his own yard and wondered why he didn't tease the boys and play with them on the street. When asked about it he said: "Well, I'm a regular scrapper with my own gang, but there's a no visiting here and I don't know where I can lick him or not; so I'm waiting 'til he's gone home. I like our yard best anyway."

Insects Used for Cockroach Dyes.

Nineteen thousand insects are required to make one pound of cochineal dye. Only the bodies of the females are used. They are wingless and each one produces over 1,000 young which spread over the plants rapidly.

Caterpillar's Breathing Apparatus

A caterpillar does not breathe through its mouth, but through holes in the sides of its body.

Master Eddy Buck, of West Front street, is visiting at the home of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beauchamp at LeConte Mills.

Miss H. B. Thompson left Sunday for Carlisle, after spending a week at her home in Bigler.

Peter Brion, manager of the Clearfield Auto Supply Company, who had his left arm so severely injured in an automobile accident near Barrett last week, is still a patient at the Rowles hospital. He is recovering satisfactorily.

Mrs. Gerald J. Roach and children, Marilyn and Louise, and Mrs. Eugene Henry and son Lynn, visited their mother Mrs. R. H. Lynn who is a patient at the Cottage State Hospital.

Mrs. R. H. Lynn of South Second Street is confined to the Cottage State Hospital at Philipsburg.

and mother, some way, some how, would be able to accomplish the thing—whatever it might be—that would keep him alive. Except for the three times that he came so close to death that the dividing line was hardly visible, the boy has been conscious of all that was being done for him.

At one o'clock this morning, the word was passed out from the room where the Coolidges were gathered that it did not seem possible for the boy to live after four o'clock this morning. But when that hour came, a new note of cheerfulness was evident, and hopes were expressed that his life could be saved, although the battle is not yet won.

The operation Saturday night and subsequent examinations developed the fact that only one germ was present in the infected part of the boy's body, thus making it easier for the physicians to concentrate on the eradication of this element. The germ is known as the Staphylococci. Introduced last Monday into a tiny blister on the boy's foot, the germ swept rapidly through the body, and the object of the fight now is to cause them to gather in specific places in the body so that operations can be performed to remove them.

At 8 a. m. physicians at the hospital made the following statement: "The most promising thing upon which hope is based is none of the vital organs have broken."

It is painful to the soul, and it is felt that a man may become puffed with pride if you give him a compliment.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

There is considerable of a constitutional difference between a Democrat and a Republican. That difference is illuminatingly exemplified in almost every National convention of the two parties and never was more convincingly demonstrated than by the 1924 convention. For instance—at Cleveland a few short weeks ago Andy "Million" and another millionaire representative or two told the assembled thousands or more delegates and "representatives of the pee-pul" what to do, and the aforesaid thousand or more immediately jumped through as many hoops and Cal was named.

Down at New York the same tactics were attempted by the same influences back of Andy "Million" and Cal and less than one-third the delegates listened to the "siren voices." The remainder of the "unterrified and uncontrolled" delegates are making up their own minds, and we believe, along about the time this is being stamped upon the printed page, those "unterrified and uncontrolled" delegates will be putting over the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo, of California. He will make a great candidate.

The London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association writes that an enlarged and revised edition of "Alcohol: Its Action on the Human Organism" has just been issued by the Government. Among the many interesting results yielded by this research is the fact that the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the blood stream can be modified by the conditions under which alcoholic beverages are drunk.

The slower the absorption, the less the degree of inebriation. Food in the stomach acts as a dilution, but certain kinds of food exercise a greater effect than others. Milk, or bread and milk, taken two and a half hours before alcohol, caused absorption of alcohol in the blood to be slower than was observed under any other experimental conditions. Meat, so frequently taken with alcohol, has only a slight influence on absorption.

Experiments on the effect of alcohol on speed and accuracy in typewriting showed that the disturbing influence of the drug was much diminished when alcohol was taken with or soon after food. The popular belief that malted liquors are good for nursing mothers is stated not to be confirmed by scientific evidence. Although alcohol is described in the report as a drug, it is not denied that the body can use. But when wine aids toward recovery after illness, this is held to be chiefly because it makes the patient more contented, and improves the appetite for ordinary foods.

The secret of the charm of alcohol is given as the sense it creates of careless well-being or of bodily and mental comfort. The bodily sensation is due to a flushing of the skin with blood, which abolishes all sense of chill. It blunts the sensibility to small pains and pains, which, except for those enjoying perfect health, depress humanity.

Discussing the value of alcohol as a medicine, the report remarks that its use in hospitals has been much reduced without injury to patients, and, in some, abandoned altogether. The only point at issue now is whether its use should not be further curtailed. Alcohol is not, like quinine, a specific cure for any disease. The popular opinion that alcohol in excess is more dangerous to people of sedentary habits is not confirmed, for it is stated in the report that active exercise creates an increasing demand for the drug as a supposed aid to labor.

The effect of the daily glass of beer or spirits on length of life is discussed, but the extreme difficulty of forming a scientific conclusion is pointed out. The experience of one insurance company confirms the view that total abstainers live longer than nonabstainers, but other influences besides alcohol have to be considered. The general conclusion is that alcoholic beverages are not necessary for healthy life, that they should be taken diluted with food, and that they are definitely dangerous for children and for most persons of unstable nervous system.

"My Rheumatism is gone—"

"THERE are thousands of you men and women, just like I once was—slaves to rheumatism, muscle pains, joint pains, and horrible stiffness. I had the wrong idea about rheumatism for years. I didn't realize that increasing blood-cells had the effect of completely knocking out rheumatic impurities from the system. That is why I began using S.S.S. Today I have the strength I used to have years ago! I don't use my crutches any more." S.S.S. makes people talk about themselves the way it builds up their strength. Start S.S.S. today for that rheumatism. You'll feel the difference shortly.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Keeps Out Driving Rains

This morning's storm with its driving rain found all the weak spots in and around your windows and doors. You probably had enough damage done to your home to have paid for the installation of NUMETAL several times over.

Don't take another chance. You never know when a storm is coming. You cannot judge its severity. Have us install—or you can do it yourself—if you wish—NUMETAL Weather Strip around your windows and doors. They will then be weather-tight. There is nothing to wear out—will last a lifetime.

Have us tell you how little it will cost you to install NUMETAL.

MUCH FLATTERING COMMENT HEARD

gard in which the Legion is held and a manifestation of a healthy community spirit. The floats were in competition for three prize cups in three different classes. Namely, the most artistic float representing a business or industrial firm, floats of an advertising nature and having advertising appeal and floats representing clubs, societies and civic organizations. No class was in competition with the other.

As stated in Saturday's Progress the prize for the most artistic float was won by the Daisy Thorn Johnson Millinery Shop. This float was entirely designed and built by Mrs. Johnson, herself.

The Clearfield Brick Manufacturing Company won the prize for the best advertising feature. Their float well represented the beauty and durability of their product.

The Railway Trainmen and Firemen won the prize given to the organization or society for the best float. This float, a miniature locomotive, tender and caboose was undoubtedly one of the most unusual floats ever seen in Clearfield.

The Judges, however, did not have an easy time awarding the above prizes, as the following letter will indicate.

Judges' Letter

The John Lewis Shade Post of the American Legion have asked the Progress through their columns to thank the business houses and organizations of Clearfield who were represented in this parade for their splendid cooperation. The Legion realizes the amount of work involved in these floats and wishes to place credit for this where it is due. They feel, however, the distinct success of this event is worth much to the community.

RUFFLES

Just three little ruffles of organza, given to one side but not to the other, make this crepe de chine frock distinctive and relieve the plainness which does get a little monotonous. McAdoo Refused To Release Delegates

While they were engaged in this quiet canvass of sentiment, McAdoo himself was vehemently assuring these same delegates of his that under no circumstances is he going to quit this fight.

"I will fight to my last drop of blood to win this fight against the sinister influences that oppose me," McAdoo said to a group of his followers. "People have come to me and begged me with tears in their eyes not to abandon this fight, and I'm not going to withdraw. I would feel like a contemptible traitor if I did."

"The harmony conference however still has a breath of life in it, despite its failure to evolve a plan for breaking the deadlock pleasing to all the candidates.

"There probably will be another meeting," said Tom Taggart of Indiana, this morning. "No, I don't know when. The meeting so far has been like two fellows sparring for an opening. We said: 'Here's our plan,' the McAdoo people said: 'Here's ours,' we could not agree, but it looks to me like another offer will be made."

This heightened the impression that McAdoo, realizing he is in an awkward position by alone standing out against the plan to which fifteen others have agreed, will bring forth another proposition or else modify his present one.

"The conference has by no means ended," said David L. Rockwell, McAdoo's manager. "We probably will meet again and I think there may be a new proposition submitted."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, chairman of the convention and one of the two umpires who sat in the conference, was not so sanguine.

"The situation is not very promising," said Walsh following the break-up. "It doesn't look to me like an amicable solution is in sight or that any general agreement can be reached."

George Brennan, the Illinois boss, who is acting for Governor Smith, declared he was opposed to discarding the two thirds rule at this stage of the nomination.

"Originally I was in favor of majority nomination," said Brennan. "But they elected to fight this battle out on the two thirds rule and with so much bitterness in the convention now I feel it would be bad business to change it in the middle of the fight. In this situation the only apparent hope of obtaining a quick nomination lies in the delegates themselves."

Loud and long were the lamentations this morning when they learned their leaders have been unable to reach an agreement. They have been here two weeks and they want to go home. Their purses are low. Some of them already empty, and they are wiring home for funds.

With resentment and nostalgia uppermost in their minds the delegates themselves may decide to take the bit in their collective teeth and stampede in any direction that looks promising. The anti-McAdoo leaders are privately hoping they will—so long as the direction is not McAdoo.

And they are more confident than ever that "it won't be McAdoo."

The Californian's opposition to the terms agreed upon by his fifteen rivals for ending the fight has solidified

the anti McAdoo elements, as nothing else could.

At the same time, they cannot get around the fact that if McAdoo can hold his bedrock strength, he possesses a veto power in this convention that will permit of no other nomination than his own.

That was the burning question today in all the conferences and confabs about the Waldorf.

"Can McAdoo, in the light of the over-Sunday developments, hold his strength?" some think he can, and some think he can't. The delegates themselves hold the answer.

Governor Smith is ready to go anywhere except to McAdoo. While he is not "withdrawing" in formal way, nor will he so long as McAdoo remains in the race, it is now plainly apparent that the New York Governor will gladly throw his strength to any candidate who promises to be able to command two thirds of the delegates to this convention.

MOM'N POP

PENNSY GRAMS

Bellefonte, Pa., July 7. (INS.)—"God bless everybody" were the last words of John Daily, 30, an Italian, just before he was electrified here at 7:30 this morning at the Rockview Penitentiary. Daily was convicted of killing his wife two years ago in Allegheny county.

He was pronounced dead at 7:37. His body has been unclaimed.

Pittsburgh—Ignatz Gossek, 50, of Renton, Plum township, died early today at the Citizens' General hospital at New Kensington from shock and internal injuries received during a quarrel over a card game last night, according to the police. Charles Sitter, 40, alleged assailant, is being held at the Oakmont police station.

Pittsburgh—Thousands of delegates are already here today for the 11th biennial convention of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor, which opens this afternoon and will close July 11. Tonight at Forbes Field a mass meeting will be held with C. M. Lehmann, convention chairman presiding when President A. H. Brownell of the Pennsylvania C. E. and Mayor William A. MaGea will deliver addresses.

Greensburg—Harry, Jr., eight, coughed the child rolled into a blanket, Pittsburgh, visiting at the home of his aunt Mrs. Davis Beckley, at Youngwood near here, was smothered to death when during his sleep on a couch the child rolled into a blanket, according to authorities.

Washington—The Pennsylvania Retail Clothiers' Association annual convention opened here today with about 600 clothing merchants from all parts of the State in attendance. The Men's Apparel Club will meet here also at the same time. The convention will close with a banquet Thursday evening at the George Washington Hotel.

Philadelphia—Joseph Adams, 13 years old, was dead today from a bullet wound accidentally inflicted by Francis McNabb, 12 years old, with a revolver which "wasn't loaded" while they were playing Indians. Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7. (INS.)—Wilbert Fuchser, 14, Charles Morasco, 18, and Carl Woltment, 17, were drowned in different swimming accidents here yesterday.

Harrisburg—Constable John Noon, of Middletown, believes in enforcing the law no matter whom it strikes. That is why he returned from Beaver Falls last night with his son, John, Jr., in custody, on a charge of burglary.

Several weeks ago Noon began investigating a grocery store robbery. Evidence pointed toward his son. The son left town to take a job at Beaver Falls. Noon went after him and brought him back under arrest.

Harrisburg—Two persons are in the Harrisburg Hospital in a serious condition as the result of dynamite caps exploding. Russell Baker was injured when a dynamite cap exploded while he was attempting to insert a fuse in it. Victor Witmer, 11 years old, had his left hand blown off when he struck a dynamite cap with a piece of wood.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

The Town Council will meet in regular session at the Borough Building this evening at 8 o'clock.

WON FIRST PRIZE

The Oxley & Watson Store of Phillipsburg won first prize, $50, for the most beautiful float in the industrial parade held in that town on the morning of July 4th.

Carman Ortasio of Brooklyn, N. Y., is visiting his parents on Daisy street. Mrs. E. E. Fundt of Oil City, spent the Fourth with Mrs. L. R. Browne.

Mrs. J. H. Flegal is recovering from a bad case of tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Weed and Mr. and Mrs. Towart of Montour Falls, arrived today to spend a week with Mrs. Weed's sister, Mrs. Edgar Shaw.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

The regular meeting of the Clearfield Commercial Club will be held with Minehost Jordan this evening at 6:15. There is something great on the boards for tonight's meeting and we'll see the new emblem—maybe.

Miss Blanche Wallace and Miss Mary Ann Irwin of Pennsylvania, and Miss Irene Flegal of Montana, took dinner yesterday at Jordan's and spent the afternoon calling on friends in town. Miss Flegal is a grand daughter of the late Scott Flegal of Goslen.

Now Is The Time To Drink Lots of Milk

Days like today has been, when it has been almost too much trouble to eat, are days when milk should play a leading part in your diet. There is little or no preparation necessary for the housewife in making up several delicious dishes in which milk plays a leading part. Bread and milk, something which will appease the kiddies' hunger and keep them full of pep during the heated term, is very little trouble and yet, you know that your kiddies are getting plenty of nourishment to keep their little bodies in fine shape.

Be sure that you use plenty of milk during this sort of weather.

Just a word of caution. Get your milk on ice as soon as you possibly can after the wagonman has delivered it. This is the hardest sort of weather to keep milk sweet and a trifle of care along this line will save you disappointment.
